If you're an avid user of the web it's completely natural that you're wondering what applications are out there to help you manage, track, and analyze all the data that you're collecting via your phone, tablet, laptop, and web browser. Luckily, thanks to the Internet, you can do exactly that. I personally use Wunderlist (for my personal projects and Google spreadsheets (for my clients because they're very easy to learn and very easy to use. However, if you're looking for something a bit more powerful and more customizable I highly suggest checking out their extended iOS app, Paperless (Paperless allows you to: Create "To Do" lists, which have custom HTML and CSS themes. Manage your tasks inside an assigned Notebook. See a calendar view of all your tasks in a Day View. The best part about Paperless is that it does its job really well but you can customize it to do whatever you want. It's perfect if you need to build a project management tool but you want to make it easier and more useful to manage your tasks. It's a collaborative tool because you can add your team members, and even external collaborators to your assigned Notebook. Basically, use Paperless to manage your to-do's inside a Notebook. View your tasks on a calendar, add new tasks, filter, tag, and even assign multiple color themes to your tasks and you're good to go. Warning: This App requires a Facebook Account to create a Notebook, so make sure you have an account before you start creating something with it. for the following software products:. f4r1.9m [Free] [2013.01-14] [English].. my favorites on top of the list are left/right version and joao-furado's Fade to black 2. 44 downloads from Flexisign Pro 7.5 V2, write [10:24am]. : . 15/05/2013 : . and can be anything from the ones i've cracked to completely new ones. : . He is chairman of the organising committee of the Paris Masters, a tournament that has enjoyed a new lease of life in recent years. When he is not looking after the finances of the tournament, he is also chairman of Trophée Trichet, a foundation dedicated to the redevelopment of sports facilities in Paris. Trichet is proud that, in 2001, the first couple to come from the new world of professional sport, the Fabris, won the Trophée Trichet title. Fabrice Lassonde won it for the first time. It was the final of the Paris Open, a tennis tournament held every autumn at the Stade Pierre de Coubertin, site of the 1948 Olympic Games. Lassonde was just 16 and had been the champion a few months earlier at the French Open. He was tipped as a future star. "I don't think he has played against anyone like Roger Federer or Marat Safin," said Trichet, a former pro tennis player. "All of a sudden, he was much better than everyone else, and it has proved to be the case. People thought he would be out there with a normal background." Lassonde's early success was not just a fluke. It was down to a coach who had worked with him since he was 13, Miodrag Trifunovic, who stressed diet and fitness. Trichet's first job was as president of the new Ligue du Tennis Professionnel, a prominent French sports organisation founded in 1979 by former tennis players and the French tennis federation. Until that point, amateur tennis had
