This post will give you some basic information on downloading movies. There are several different ways you can download a movie. There are many websites that offer this service for free, or at minimal charge. To do it this way, all you need to do is find the movie online and download it to an appropriate site. There are also different programs on your computer that allow you to download your favorite movies for free too. If none of these options work for you, there is also the option of using torrents which require some technical know-how but have less of a learning curve than other programs, and torrents can often provide high quality video files which are comparable in quality with DVDs themselves. The first step is to go to a website that has downloadable movies. You can find these on different websites depending on the type of movie you want to download. Some websites have a selection of download-able movies, some have a selection of different types of movies for increasing your variety, and others have only the movie you want. So it is crucial to look around various sites until you find one that offers what you need. Once you find a site that suits your needs, click on their "download" button and wait for your computer to send the video file. Once it is sent, open up a mini or full version of your internet browser and navigate to the folder where the file saved in. Then simply click on the file and play it back to your heart's delight. Some sites will offer you a free program that allows you to download high quality files. The first step is go to the website and find out what operating system (Windows, Mac, etc.) their program is compatible with. Once you know this, download the software onto your computer and open it so you can install it onto your hard drive. Once installed, launch it and follow the installation prompts until it is completely downloaded and installed on your computer. Once installation has completed, go to the main website and search for whatever movie you want. Once you find the movie you want, click on it and choose either "download" or "save" whatever file option you would like. Then simply click the "play" button on the main website and voila! You will now be watching your favorite movie without any extra features, but with high quality. The other option is to use a program that will download your files onto an online server so you can access them whenever you want. These types of programs are dependent upon things such as your computer's upload speed, the size of the file being uploaded, etc. It is really up to you because all these services are free to use. One of the great things about computers is that they are very portable pieces of equipment. They can be taken anywhere you go and used for practically anything. If you want to see your favorite movie on the big screen, simply download it onto your computer, load up a DVD or VCD player, and play away. If you want to watch the movie at home, you don't need to buy a whole new DVD player; all you need is one that can read DVDs, or VCDs (Video Compact Discs) or Super VCDs (Super Video Compact Discs) because these come with extra data on commercial movies so they can play backup movies after playback of the main movie has finished.
